REDEFINING KINGSHIP

This last Sunday of the Church's liturgical year is dedicated to Christ, our King. In the first reading, from the second book of Samuel, we meet Jesus' ancestor, David, the greatest king of Israel. This reading describes a glorious monarch who is acclaimed by all the tribes of Israel. He is called both a "shepherd" and a "commander." The second reading, from Paul's Letter to the Colossians, also contains glorious language, describing Christ as "the firstborn of all creation." Only at the end of this reading do we hear a hint of the paradox we will meet in today's Gospel: Christ the King makes "peace by the blood of his cross."
In Luke's Gospel, we confront the stark reality of Christ's kingship. Here is our king, hanging on a cross, jeered, taunted, berated by a common criminal. This king looks defeated and powerless. Yet he demonstrates how absolute His power is. His death is truly for the salvation of all, one person at a time, starting with the "Good Thief," and continuing through the ages to us today.

NUEVA DEFINICIÓN DEL REINO

Este último domingo del año litúrgico de la Iglesia está dedicado a Cristo Rey. En la primera lectura tomada del segundo libro de Samuel, encontramos al antepasado de Jesús, David, el rey más grande de Israel. Este pasaje describe a un glorioso monarca aclamado por todas las tribus de Israel. Es llamado "pastor" y "jefe". La segunda lectura, de la carta de Pablo a los Colosenses, también contiene un glorioso lenguaje para describir a Cristo como "el primogénito de toda la creación". Solamente al final de este pasaje oímos un indicio de la paradoja que encontraremos en el Evangelio de hoy. Cristo Rey establece la paz "por su sangre derramada en la cruz".

En el Evangelio de Lucas, confrontamos la escueta realidad del reinado de Cristo. Aquí está nuestro rey, colgado de una cruz, mofado, escarnecido, insultado por un común criminal. Este rey parece vencido e impotente. Sin embargo demuestra que absoluto es su poder. Su muerte es realmente por la salvación de todos, una persona a la vez, comenzando con el "buen ladrón", y continuando por todas las edades hasta nosotros hoy.

May God Bless you all,
Fr. Juan Manuel
